As a student in the doctoral programme in Social Sciences you complete an academic education and acquire the competencies needed for an academic career in your field. On the way, however, you learn much more. You learn to use creativity and knowledge to understand the world; and you certainly have ideas on how to bring a positive impact to society. However, where do you go from here? Join this ViDSS Brownbag Session and get a first idea about what (and whom) you need to know and what to do in order to develop a thriving venture. For PhDs and postdocs.

With experts on social entrepreneurship and successful former students who are making an impact on society:

Clara Conrad-Billroth, member of the entrepreneurship team at the University of Vienna
Daniele Karasz, co-founder and director of Search and Shape, Institute for Applied Social Research
Nadja Schmidt, founder and CEO of visuelles: and executive director of the Austrian branch of the International Campaign to Abolish Nuclear Weapons (ICAN)
