ViDSS Brownbag Session

Research and publication services for early career researchers

18 November 2025 | 14:00–15:30 | online

Do you know where to find existing social science data, how to collect, archive and enrich digital or digitised academic objects, how to publish open access, and how to increase your visibility? Have you already explored how to best use AI in your research? If not, join our upcoming ViDSS Brownbag Session!

You'll learn about the principles of Open Science, Research Data Management (RDM), and FAIR data, and how these are relevant for you as PhD student or postdoctoral researcher. Learn how the Austrian Social Science Data Archive (AUSSDA) supports early career researchers in archiving and sharing their data at the end of their projects, and gain first insights into the new "AI Literacy" workshop series. Guests:

Anna Krenn, User Services, Team Teaching Library

Emily Kate, Data Steward

Lisa Hirsch, Core facility AUSSDA – The Austrian Social Science Data Archive
